OUR MISSION

The Mission of The Canadian Journal of Nursing Informatics is to provide a peer-reviewed venue for members of the Canadian Nursing Informatics Association, and other researchers who work with Nursing Informatics to disseminate their research, essays, reviews, presentations, multimedia and other digital publishable materials on a global scale.

We encourage researchers, educators, experimenters at all levels of expertise to feel confident in submitting their work for review. It is our mission to support fledgling as well as seasoned researchers in showcasing their work within the on-line environment.

OUR PURPOSE

The Canadian Nursing Informatics Association (CNIA) exists to help nurses across Canada to learn, share, research, and create informatics-related projects and experiences that can help to boost the competencies, theory, and practice of informatics on a national level. As part of our commitment to our members, the idea of a Canadian Journal of Nursing Informatics (CJNI) was conceived, an on-line publication that would be available to anyone interested in the evolving field of Canadian nursing informatics.

PLEASE CONTRIBUTE!

We are looking for papers, presentations, book/software/resource reviews, and other digital works related to Nursing Informatics in Practice, Education, Research and Administration. Please join us in showcasing how Nursing Informatics is being shaped in Canada and globally. Please do not think that your work is not "good enough"! If it pertains to nursing informatics in some capacity, we will help you to polish your submission to perfection. Your submission does not have to be a scholarly paper, per se. It can be a narrative essay, outlining your experiences in practicing, teaching, researching, or managing nursing informatics initiatives. It can be a description of a web-site or other resource to help nurses become aware of the use of technology, data, information and the like in their practice. You can review an excellent book, video, or other resource related to informatics. Even poems, art work, multimedia, and other creative works are all welcome! As well, we are looking for regular column contributors that focus on new technologies, software reviews, tips for nursing informatics teaching or practice, - or perhaps you have a bright idea to suggest??

The Journal is issued four times a year, with a Spring, Summer, Fall and Winter edition. Deadlines for submissions will eventually be:

- Winter Issue - deadline January 1st
- Spring Issue - deadline March 1st
- Summer Issue - deadline May 1st
- Fall Issue - deadline August 1st

If you are interested in submitting, please send an abstract of your work (max. 1000 words) to our Editors for consideration. We welcome inventive as well as practical papers and other forms of exploration into the diverse world of Nursing Informatics!

READY TO SUBMIT?

Here are the Guidelines for submitting your manuscript for publishing consideration for the Canadian Journal of Nursing Informatics.

Papers submitted for review to The Canadian Journal of Nursing Informatics must be original works on the part of the authors, must not have been published previously, and must not be under review with another publication at any time during the review process. A wide variety of submissions are welcomed to The Canadian Journal of Nursing Informatics.

Submissions to The Canadian Journal of Nursing Informatics are peer reviewed. The editorial board will work closely with the author as manuscript consultants to edit the paper or other work for publication in The Canadian Journal of Nursing Informatics. The 21 member Editorial board and team will also focus on helping the author develop as a nursing informatics-focused writer and researcher. We welcome both research and practically focused contributions.

Full articles should average no more than 7500 words in length (this can be flexible in special cases) and should include an abstract of around 200 words. We encourage papers, reviews and other types of submissions that include hypermedia links to relevant informatics resources, since these can easily be incorporated in the on-line presentation.

Please list the names, institutions, e-mail addresses, and if applicable, World Wide Web addresses (URL(s)), of all authors. Also include a brief biographical statement (around 50 words, in sentence format) for each author. Please format your work using 5th edition APA style.

Please Email Your Submission to June.Kaminski@cni.ca (with "Canadian Journal of Nursing Informatics Submission" in the Subject line) as an attached file, either as a Word (doc); PDF; Powerpoint (PPT); or WINZIP file. All submissions must be in digital format.
